What is IRP?

The International Registration Plan (IRP) is a registration reciprocity agreement among jurisdictions of the United States, the District of Columbia and Provinces of Canada providing for payment of apportionable fees on the basis of total distance operated in all jurisdictions. IRP's fundamental principle is to promote and encourage the fullest possible use of the highway system.

How many truck drivers are in the USA? And why we need more...

The transportation industry is a crucial part of America's economy, as nearly every industry relies on the goods and supplies that are transported by truck drivers every day.

Over 70% of items consumed are being transported on America's highways. These products include food, fuel, healthcare supplies and so much more. Without the transport of these basic supplies, the nation would be in some serious trouble.

But how many truck drivers are in the USA moving all that product every day and what is causing the shortage in drivers nation-wide?

California bans the sale of new diesel trucks by 2036

California regulators voted to ban the sale of new diesel big rigs by 2036 and require all trucks to be zero-emissions by 2042, a decision that puts the state at the forefront of mitigating national tailpipe pollution.

Supporters of the rule say it will improve public health in marginalized communities that have endured polluted air while mitigating the effects of climate change. The mandate is estimated to deliver $26.5 billion in public health benefits in California in avoided health impacts and deaths due to diesel pollution.
